(Character Extraordinaire)

*When the books close, and the last bell rings,
And carefree days are lost to earthly things —
When nostalgia strikes, and your memory wanes,
And you remember the faces but not the names —
Pick up your yearbook and leaf
it through,
And remember the days so dear to you.*

50 Years: So What?

- ❖ We are an aging class characterized by chronology, gray hair, wrinkles, and creaking joints.
- ❖ But people don't age because of chronology. People age when they quit having a purpose life and quit pursuing an ideal.
- ❖ My challenge to all of us - what is our purpose in life – our ideal?
- ❖ What we do in life will echo in eternity.
- ❖ We all must keep defining our purpose and keep pushing toward an ideal.
- ❖ And if we do that, we will never get old!

GOD Bless You!

Let's See Everybody At Our 55th Reunion!
